

"Getting ready for bed": An explanatory tool for deconstructing tacit knowledge

We have all been told or have told others: "Get ready for bed." Everyone knows, implicitly or tacitly, what this means in their environment or culture. Breaking down this simple and universal instruction identifies the many facets and tasks involved in the action of getting ready for bed.

Factors that impact knowledge:

